Property tax appraisal and collection is one of the most complex, critical responsibilities of any jurisdiction. Increasing legislation and declining property values are straining the limits of legacy software systems.

A new software system could reduce your risks, increase accuracy and improve efficiencies, but the software procurement and implementation is a major undertaking with significant costs and risks. How do you determine the correct strategy? How do you justify the budget? How do you evaluate the many software vendors and select the best solution for your needs and budget? How do you build the best team and foundation for your project?

Accent has provided project leadership, methodology and change management for successful tax assessment software projects across the country. We help you build a strong team and minimize risks. Our consultants are seasoned professionals who know the tax assessment software vendors and their products, but represent the best interests of your jurisdiction.
